Library News

While on sabbatical, Assistant Director/Librarian Todd Rix created a series of video tutorials covering various resources in the library. Subjects include an E-book overview, how to request articles from other libraries, and using the library catalog. With these tutorials accessible via YouTube 24/7, students can find help anytime. Check them out here:

Spotlight on: Library Prize for Undergraduate Research

The Charles W. and Joan S. Coker Library and the Undergraduate Research Program announce the 4th annual Library Prize of Undergraduate Research. One project will be selected to win $500. Submission deadline is Friday, March 4, 2016.

To be eligible to participate you must be a Coker College undergraduate at any class level and in any discipline, and be enrolled, ie, taking a class or classes, in the Spring 2016 semester, or have completed all undergraduate coursework during the Fall 2015 semester (ie graduated in December 2015).

For more information go to <http://libguides.coker.edu/libraryprize>

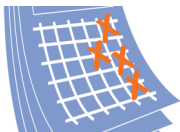

Did You Know?

Did you know that the library has a streaming video database? Kanopy provides educational institutions access to one of the largest collections of films in the world – including award-winning documentaries, training films and theatrical releases – on every topic imaginable.

Through this on-demand streaming video service Coker College now has access to more than 26,000 films. This is a patron driven acquisition model. Films can be viewed/previewed three times with no charges incurred. An annual license fee is triggered the fourth time a title is viewed. The link to Kanopy can be found on the Library's Databases page.

Where Can I Find Library Hours?

Library hours for the semester are posted on the library website, under "About Us" and "Hours." The monthly Google calendar that is posted shows hours for each day. Check it out here!

Become a Library Ambassador!

Students—would you like become part of an advisory board for the library and give feedback about library services and resources? How about helping to promote the library and plan fun programs and events? Or even learning about the great career of librarianship and what's involved in getting your Master of Library and Information Science? Let us know at kjones@coker.edu!
